

MY IDEAL PERSON

My idol is Socrates. Socrates was a philosopher who was born in Greece in 470 B.C. He was so important that even today people admire him. Socrates and his method of examining life was so important that philosophy is divided into what came before him and what came after him.

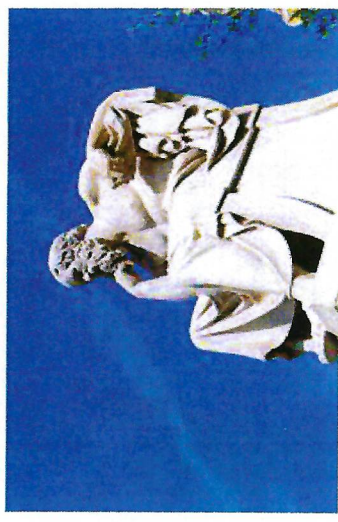

When somebody was asking him something he wasn't answering. He had a method. He was asking him more questions in order to find the answer and the truth by himself. That is another reason I admire him so much. He also believed that no-one was born bad, but he became.

Socrates was a very simple man who didn't ask money for what he taught and was more interested in bringing out true knowledge. Socrates used to say that he wasn't the wisest man and that he knew, that he knew nothing.

He said that people should care more about their souls than their bodies and money. This is something that not many people do in our days and I really admire.

Also I am very proud of him because he is Greek and he has made Greece famous all over the world.

That's why Socrates is my ideal person.
